THE DEVELOPMENT OF INTERNATIONAL LAW IN ASIA-KOREA (DILA-KOREA)

Professor Clive Schofield is Director of Research at the Australian Centre for Ocean Resource and Security (ANCORS), University of Wollongong (UOW). He is also the Leader of the University's Sustaining Oceans and Coastal Communities research theme within the UOW Global Challenges Program. He is a past Australian Research Council (ARC) Future Fellow and QEII Senior Research Fellow. He holds a PhD (geography) from the University of Durham, UK and an LLM from the University of British Columbia, Canada. Clive's research interests relate to international boundaries and particularly maritime boundary delimitation and marine jurisdictional issues. He has published over 200 scholarly publications including 22 books and monographs (including edited works) on these issues as well as geo-technical aspects of the law of the sea and maritime security. Clive serves as an International Hydrographic Office (IHO)-nominated Observer on the Advisory Board on the Law of the Sea (ABLOS) and is a member of the International Law Association's Committee on International Law and Sea Level Rise. He has also been involved in the peaceful settlement of boundary and territory disputes.

Leonardo Bernard was a Research Fellow with the Centre for International Law (CIL), National University of Singapore (NUS), where he focused on international law and maritime boundaries disputes. Leo has researched and written extensively on the maritime disputes in the South China Sea and on the application of historic rights under international law. His paper on 'The Effect of Fisheries on Maritime Boundary Delimitation' was awarded the Law of the Sea Institute (LOSI) Research Competition Award for Early Career Researchers in 2012. He has been invited to present his research on the South China Sea and maritime boundary disputes not only in Singapore, but also in the USA, Australia, Japan, Malaysia, Indonesia, South Korea and China. Leo was also involved in the editing of the books 'Beyond Territorial Disputes in the South China Sea: Legal Framework for the Joint Development of Hydrocarbon Resources' and 'The South China Sea Disputes and the Law of the Sea', both are part of the CIL International Law book series. He is currently the Associate Editor for the Asia-Pacific Journal of Ocean Law and Policy and a PhD candidate at the Australian National Centre for Ocean Resources and Security (ANCORS) at the University of Wollongong, Australia.
